Inquest Into Love Fatality — Driver of Car Committed For Trial on Manslaughter Charge.

In Hamilton court on Friday morning last following the hearing of the testimony of eight crown witnesses, Magistrate McKay committed Wylie Theal, of Grimsby, to stand trial in higher court on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Miss Florence Love of this town whose death occurred from injuries received when Theal's car crashed into the rear of a bus travelling east on the Niagara Highway near Winona on the morning of April 12th.

In his evidence Dr. Heddle of Stony Creek who examined Miss Love in the hospital, said she sustained a fractured skull and pelvis, in addition to other injuries, passing away about 8.15 o'clock on the morning of the accident which occurred at 2.15 o'clock A.M. without regaining consciousness.

Officer Jess testified to being called to the scene of the accident and said he paced off 33 steps between the car and the 16,500 pound bus which had not been moved when he arrived.

George Ramsay, driver of the bus, said he was travelling east with 35 passengers and that Theal's car pushed his bus over a bus length, the bus having stopped to allow a passenger, Donald Hutchinson of St. Catharines, who had become ill, to alight.

Theal, in speaking to the officer at the hospital, said the visibility was poor and he could not tell how fast he was driving when he crashed into the bus.

Testimony was also given by Wilt (Continued on page 8)

SPECIAL MEETING TOWN COUNCIL

Financial Statement Discussed—Building Permits Approved—Busy Session.

A lengthy meeting of the Grimsby town council which met in special session was held in the new council chambers in the town's municipal building, formerly the Alexander School, on Monday evening, Mayor Lewis presiding. Included in the budget of business was consideration of the annual financial statement, a comprehensive summary of which was given by Councillor Lothian, Chairman of the Finance Committee. A review of the statement appears in another column. The resignation of Councillor Almas was also dealt with. Arrangement for a nomination meeting to fill the vacancy will likely be made at the next meeting of the council.

Permission was granted the Salvation Army to hold a Tag Day June 6th 1936.

The council took no action regarding communication of Seymour and Lampard re W. W. Cooper.

The Treasurer was authorized to accept cheque of G. A. Sinclair, Medical Relief Officer of $114.72 and issue cheque for $200.00 to the Treasurer of the Medical Relief Committee covering medical attention to Relief Cases, as per arrangement for January and February, 1936.

The communication from the city of St. Catharines re Isolation Hospitals for indigents was accepted and placed on file.

No less than nine building permits were approved as follows, subject to the supervision of the building inspector:

D. C. Thompson, 19 Oulario St., Gordon Hannah, 50 Main W., Mrs. Russell York, 229 Main W., D. E. Anderson, 22 Robinson St., F. Woolcombe 31 Robinson St., R. J. Snelinger, 52 Main W., Harvey Wadge, 47 Mountain St., E. Laidman, 37 Paton St., Mrs. A. Hewson, 28 Depot St.

A bylaw will be prepared whereby applicants for building permits, apply direct to the Building Inspector for same, this being considered an improvement on the old method, inasmuch as Building Inspector is the authority to examine applications and to approve them.

The Chief of Police was given authority to purchase a Fingerprint outfit from the R.C.M.P. at the price of $2.50.

Arrangements will be made with Pettit & Whyte for additional Fire Policy on New Council Chambers of $1500, making a total Fire Insurance of $4000.00 at rate of $1.10.

The Mayor and Councillor Lothian were authorized to purchase Uniform suits and Uniform hats from one of the local merchants for the Chief of Police and Night Constable.

The council accept the auditor's report for 1935 and expressed appreciation of the details supplied by Mr. Bolton.

The Police were authorized to commence the operation of the Stop Light immediately on motion of Councillors Almas and Lothian. Opinion as to date on which stop light should be turned on was not unanimous, the council dividing on resolution as follows: Nays—Chivers, Wilt (Continued on page 5)

100 Year Old Home Being Remodelled

Another historic old home, situated on Depot Street, Grimsby, which belongs to Mrs. Arthur Hewson and was built by Mr. Longmire, grandfather of Mr. John VanDuser about one hundred years ago, is being remodelled at the present time. It was the birthplace of Mrs. Hewson whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wiley, lived there for many years. Mr. William Hewson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hewson was also born in the old homestead. It is also interesting to note that the fence in front of the property is over 50 years old, being constructed from stone brought from the state of Ohio, U.S.A.

POSITION OF TOWN OF GRIMSBY SHOWS STEADY IMPROVEMENT

Comparison With Financial Statements of Previous Years Augury of Better Times Ahead According to Summary Prepared By Finance Chairman, William Lothian — Debtors Debt Substantially Reduced in Past Six Years — Economies Effected in All Departments — Revenue in 1935 Highest in Six Years While Surplus of Current Assets Over Current Liabilities Constitutes Best Showing in Same Period.

William Lothian, the capable chairman of the Finance Committee of the Grimsby Council, has favored "The Independent" with the following summary of the town's present financial position which we are pleased to give space to in our columns. It indicates the steady progress being made, the surplus of current assets over current liabilities constituting the best showing in a period of six years. Citizens will find the information reproduced in this summary an encouraging augury of better times ahead.

Summary of Financial Statement
After comparing the Auditors' Financial Statement of the Town of Grimsby for the year 1935 with the statements for previous years back to and including 1930, it appears to be an opportune time to draw the attention of the taxpayer to the progress made and the Town's financial position.

I am requesting your indulgence, Mr. Editor, and trust you may consider the matter of sufficient importance to reproduce the following information for the benefit of the taxpayers.

Debtors Debt Reduced By $137,451.63

Debtors:
Principal (unpaid) at Dec. 31, 1930 $272,857.32
New Debtors issued in 1930 covering Sewer and Disposal Works 126,259.08
New Debtors issued in 1931 covering Sewer Extension 49,444.49
New Debtors issued in 1932 covering refund—part of Bank Loan 34,000.00
$482,560.89
Principal (unpaid) at Dec. 31, 1935 345,451.63

Showing that the Town has met all due payments on Principal of Debtors during the past 5 years, amounting to $137,109.26

The following shows debtors principal plus interest, paid by the Town during the past six years:

Year	1930	1931	1932	1933	1934	1935
Principal	$38,534.84	$7,243.06	$7,448.67	$50,330.06	$7,560.70	$5,788.21

The increased amounts paid during the years 1931 to 1934 were necessitated by debtors issued to cover Sewers and Disposal Works, and the further increase in 1935 for first repayment on Refunding Debtors.

Savings Effected By All Departments
With regard to other expenses, Office, Police, Board of Works, Cemetery, etc. these generally are lower than in 1930, this being true of expense incurred by the Board of Education and the Water Commission, showing that savings have been effected by all spending departments of the municipality. From 1930 to 1935, extraordinary expense of about $1,500.00 had to be met, covering the following headings: Town Map, Cook of Equalized Assessment, Legal Costs (re Mohan), Acquiring Property and Widening Mountain Road and New Fire Truck.

Receipts Highest in Six Years

Revenue:
The Revenue received in 1935 was the highest of the past six years, taxes paid (current and arrears) amounted to $117,762.91, this being higher than the next best year 1934 by $15,661.76.

Surplus of Current Assets Substantially Increased

Current Assets and Liabilities:
The total of the town's current assets, representing Bank Balances, unpaid taxes, etc., as at Dec. 31, 1935, was $80,644.52, as against current liabilities, (covering Bank Loan and County of Lincoln Rate) $73,706.37, that is a surplus of current assets over current liabilities of $6,938.15, this being the best showing in the period of six years.

The total current liability is lower than in any other year of the past four.

Peak of Heavy Expense This Year
It will be seen that the town has made some progress over the period referred to. We have come through a very difficult time and met in full our obligations to debtors holders and reduced our current liabilities, as to the future. For reasons to be shown, the current year should be possibly the peak of our heavy expense period, after which, if tax collections this year are in line with 1935, the problem of financing for Grimsby will be simplified. While savings may be effected in different ways, we must look to the retirement of debtors for any substantial saving to the taxpayer.

During the period referred to the yearly saving on debtors retired amounted to $5,633.18 only.

In 1935, two small debtors were retired, yearly payments amounting to $544.15.

In the current year, an increased payment has to be made on account of a complete year's interest and principal on refunding debtors, the small payment in 1935 on this debtors, being due to cancellation of $3,000.00 debtors, which were unused. Savings, however, particularly by the Board of Works and in other directions, will help to offset this increase.

Debtors Being Retired
We are approaching the time when retirement of debtors, will assist the town finances as the following table of final payments of principal and interest will show:

Year	Local Improvements	Other Debtors
1936	nil	$3,633.52
1937	$1,848.24	2,915.64
1938	5,786.51	6,177.76
1939	—	823.50

The year 1936 should mark the peak in the cost of Debtors interest and repayment of principal, providing councils of the future, avoid any new capital expenditure, except what can be met out of current revenue, until such time as the debtors debt is considerably reduced. Further, no capital town is able to pay current indebtedness by the end of each financial year. In conclusion, it may be anticipated for the reasons stated that our total expense for the current year will be much in line with 1935. Our revenue of course is an unknown quantity, but serious efforts must be made to collect all moneys due to the town in order to turn that the Town's liabilities may be met.

No reduction in the tax rate for 1936 should be expected.

Twins Born in North Grimsby Weigh Total of 4 lbs.—One Living

Three weeks ago, on April 13, Mrs. Irene Sharpe, North Grimsby, gave birth to twins, boy and a girl. At birth the boy weighed but one pound, twelve ounces, and the girl, two pounds and four ounces, or a total of just four pounds. The male child died within a few hours, but his little sister, Mildred Marie, is still living and every effort is being made at the Moyer Nursing Home, where they were rushed immediately after birth, to preserve the tiny life by means of feeding with an eye dropper. An electric pad is being used to keep the babe at an even temperature and each day hopes are rising that science will win its battle.

Councillor Almas Resigns—Buys Farm Near Port Weller

Another vacancy on the Grimsby town council occurred during the past week with the resignation of Councillor A. W. Almas who has purchased a farm, about a mile from Port Weller. Mr. Almas took the place of Councillor Palmer who for business reasons relinquished a position on the council in January. Mr. Almas had previously been defeated at the municipal election in December. He has been engaged in fruit farming here for some years.

His resignation necessitates another nomination meeting although it is hoped to fill the vacancy by acclamation.

Blossom Time Music Festival Next Week

The seventh annual Blossom Time Music Festival which is appropriately held at this season of the year and which will take place in Trinity Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, May 14th and 15th, is being looked forward to with keen anticipation by citizens generally. It is being held by the Schools of Grimsby and district under the direction of G. L. Eaton, supervisor of music.

Featuring the festival will be a Festival Chorus of 150 voices assisted by the High School Glee Club and the Grimsby Young Men's Chorus, while the splendid program being prepared will also include solos, class singing, kindergarten rhythm band, harmonica band and piano accordion solos.

Indications point to Trinity Hall being filled on both evenings as this is an outstanding event of the season.

BLOSSOMS OUT EARLY NEXT WEEK

If Warm Weather Continues Peach And Cherry Trees Will Be In Full Bloom In Few Days Blossom Sunday, May 17th.

If the present warm weather continues Blossom Week in this district will occur next week. The peach and cherry blossoms, according to Mr. T. R. Hunter, Fruit Pest Inspector, will be out early next week if present weather conditions continue and promise to be at their best about Thursday of next week with Blossom Sunday, a week from Sunday, May 17th. As in previous years Blossom Week generally is observed between May 10 and 17th.

The first blossoms to make their appearance will be the peach and sweet cherry followed by the sour cherry and pears and finally the apple blossoms. The Peninsula was therefore within the next week be a riot of color and beauty and as in previous years will doubtless be visited by many thousands from other sections of the province as well as from more distant points, including United States, who yearly tour the "Garden of Canada" at this season of the year when it is resplendent in its lovely garb of variegated colors produced by the blossoming peach and cherry orchards which are so numerous in the Niagara Peninsula.

Grimsby Mt. School Attains First Place In Choir Competition

The choir of Mountain School, S. B. No. 13, under the direction of Mr. G. L. Eaton, supervisor of music, scored an outstanding success in the Lincoln County Music Festival this week when in competition with nine other choirs from one room schools of the county it was awarded first place. The award reflects most creditably on both director and pupils.

In the class, baritone solo, 21 years and under, Irvin Theal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. I. Theal of Grimsby and one of the most promising vocal pupils of Mr. G. L. Eaton, was successful in attaining second place, a very narrow margin of points separating the two prize winners who secured the first and second awards in this class.

Mr. Kenneth Baxter capably acted as accompanist for Mr. Theal.

PLAYS ATTRACT LARGE AUDIENCES

Highly Creditable Presentations Given By St. Andrew's A.Y. P.A. and Junior W.A.

An evening of real entertainment and humor was provided the large audiences in attendance at both performances on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week in the Parish Hall when two plays, "The Laughing Cure" by St. Andrew's A.Y. P.A. and "A Bit of Nonsense" by the Junior W.A., were presented.

"A Bit of Nonsense" was first on the program and was given following a few opening remarks by the rector, Rev. J. A. Ballard. The scene took place at Madam's Boarding School when, in this prim lady's absence, the girls proceeded to create general disorder in the regular routine of the school. Studies were forgotten in their preparations for a play and their dress rehearsals were the cause of many laughs from the audience. On the Madam's return, however, it was amusing to note how quickly everything changed back to normal and school books were hurriedly brought into use again. Those in the cast were all well suited to their parts and their presentation was enjoyed throughout. Included in the cast were: Helen Murdoch, Audrey Palmer, Joyce Warner, Idele Ambrose, Barbara Murdoch, Louise Larsen, Frances Cromwell and Beryl Chivers.

The A.Y.P.A.'s presentation of "The Laughing Cure" was certainly true to name and must surely have had a (Continued on page 8)

Roads In North Grimsby In Good Condition—Are Inspected

The North Grimsby township council, accompanied by road superintendent Jas. D. Stuart, made a tour of inspection of some of the roads of the municipality last week and found those inspected to be generally in good condition. The roads inspected were principally those below the mountain.

The township expects to do some work on the Metcalfe Bridge on the Ridge Road in the near future while grading will be also done on the Cline Mountain road. A visit to the township pier revealed it to be in excellent shape.

Other township roads will be inspected in the near future.

Mayor Lewis States Town Not Involved—North Grimsby Relief Official Says Township Not At Fault — Complaint Lodged by Nelson Tp. Councillors.

Commenting on articles appearing in the afternoon papers on Tuesday in which Nelson Township officials claimed Grimsby had sent a dying Indian out of the town because they feared relief expense if he remained, Mayor Lewis made the following statement: "The Town of Grimsby had nothing whatever to do with this case. The man did not come to Grimsby town at all, and the printed articles appearing in this afternoon papers do the Town of Grimsby and its officials a grave injustice."

Nelson Township officials, in referring to the matter, confused the Township of North Grimsby with the Town of Grimsby.

The aged Indian, who has since died, was Cornelius Johns, and he is said to have died in the Hamilton General Hospital April 25th or 26th. He passed away nearly a week after he had been sent back to Nelson Township. He had lived with a son in Nelson Township, but journeyed to North Grimsby Township to visit a married daughter a few weeks ago.

Township Not To Blame
Councillor Charles Durham of North Grimsby Township, who handled the case, said that absolutely no blame could be attached to North Grimsby Township in the matter, stating: "An apology is due someone by either Nelson Township officials or the newspapers."

The reeve and deputy reeve of Nelson Township were critical of the removal of the man in the condition in which he was.

The Facts of The Case
Councillor Durham gave the following facts in connection with the case: About a month ago, an elderly Indian (Continued on Page 8.)

Mrs. Garrett of Beamsville has kindly consented to play two violin selections, her daughter accompanying her on the piano.

Walter McRayne, Grimsby's widely known speaker, will give a talk on his experience in Red Cross work, including a Kipling poem.

The Rev. J. A. Ballard will act as chairman.

An invitation to be present is extended to all war-time Red Cross workers. A silver collection will be taken at the door, proceeds to go to Red Cross Society in Toronto.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Entire Peninsula Now On Daylight Saving Changed Sunday

The entire Niagara district went on daylight saving time Sunday. At midnight on Saturday, Grimsby, Thorold and Hamilton changed from standard to fast time, thereby coming into line with the other municipalities of the area between Toronto and Port Colborne.

The change of time in these three places will end the confusion which has existed throughout the past week in this area. Thorold has been particularly affected, where most of the factories were on fast time while the town observed standard time.

Chemists Praise Value of Soybean

Nutritive Value of Protein Declared As High As That of Milk

There was a symposium on the soybean in Kansas City. Eminent chemists got up to pay their respects to the bean, which has a history going back 5,000 years.

There was Dr. A. A. Horvath of the University of Delaware's Agricultural Experiment Station, for example. "In 1932 some nine million pounds of soybean oil were used for soap-making," he proclaimed. In fact it is because the cheap soybean costs of about 20 per cent oil that the soap-makers were among the first industrialists to take it up in a big way. Dr. Horvath referred rather scornfully to the advertising lads who insist that coconut oil is an essential in hard-water soap. Soap made of soybean will lather well, he vouches.

Dr. N. F. True sang of the soybean as a food. For centuries, the bean has been eaten in the Far East. The nutritive value of its protein is as high as that of milk. Hence the growing use of soybean milk and soy foods for babies. "There are significant amounts of vitamins B and C," reported Dr. True. In fact the lovely soybean seems to be so excellent a food that it is mixed with candies, soda-fountain beverages, chocolate, health drinks, ice cream, macaroni and prepared sauces.

Fermentation by Molds

An American farmer who saw mold growing on his soybeans would probably wring his hands. The Chinese farmer would rejoice. In fact, he likes his soy foods fermented by molds, just as we like pickles and cheese fermented with the aid of bacteria. The soybean sauce that the Chinese waiter hands you with chop suey is a fermented soybean product, in case you don't know it.

Most of the soybean foods are made from beans from which the oil has been squeezed. What becomes of the oil? The soap-makers cannot possibly use it all. Dr. E. F. Ware illuminated this phase of the subject. Paint-makers use enormous quantities of the oil. The buildings of Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition were coated with soybean paints. Millions of automobiles glisten with enamels in which soybean oil is an ingredient. Yet Dr. True admitted that "soybean oil is not ideal for paint"; it does not dry fast enough. So paint-makers blend it with other oils.

Multiplicity of Uses

Soybeans can be used for every thing from hay to hairpins, it seems. Mix the meal of the bean with formaldehyde (after the oil has been pressed out) and you have a plastic that can be molded when hot. Paper-makers use the protein separated from the meal to coat and size their stock. Soybean glue holds piles of food together.

Dr. H. E. Barnard, director of research of the Farm Chemistry Council, even expressed the opinion that artificial wool might be made out of these same proteins. The Italians are now trying to make wool out of the casing of milk. In a Wellslike glimpse of the future Dr. Barnard saw the "passing of the cow and sheep" if the soybean lives up to his hopes.

He would release them on the result of all this chemical activity. About 5,000,000 acres in this country are given over to their cultivation. But the world's center for commercial beans is still in Manchuria. But we are doing better and better. Thirty years ago only eight varieties were grown in this country; today more than sixty are listed in seedsmen's catalogues. If the industrial and food uses of the soybean increase it will rank with corn as a major American

Mosquito Pests

Much can be done by community action in reducing the number of mosquitoes which affect the comfort and health of citizens generally. Mosquitoes breed largely in temporary bodies of water, such as snow and rain pools and river flooded areas. They develop in water, and the method of control which ultimately gives most satisfaction consists in eliminating the breeding places by drainage or by filling and, in the case of large flood areas, by diking and pumping. Filling and levelling of low places where the water accumulates should be carried out wherever possible. Care should also be taken to prevent mosquitoes breeding in artificial containers, such as water barrels, either by emptying or screening them.

IN DESPAIR WITH RHEUMATISM

Had Given Up Hopes of Relief Now Finds Life a Joy

Whether you have rheumatism as badly as this woman had it, or whether you merely get an occasional twinge, you will certainly be interested to know how such a severe case was relieved.

"I feel I should like to tell you," the woman writes, "how much better I am, since this time last year for taking Kruschen Salts. I could almost say I am quite relieved of rheumatism in my legs, as I can now go up and down stairs like a normal person. Last year I couldn't bend my right knee without suffering terrible pain. It is such a pleasure to be alive now. At one time I really began to think I could find no relief. I was also a great sufferer with constipation and I find nothing better than Kruschen Salts." (Mrs.) M.A. Rheumatism is commonly caused by deposits of uric acid which lodge in the body. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits and converts them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channels.

Linking The World By Telephone

The linking of all parts of the world by the telephone is proceeding at an amazing pace. It is now possible for a telephone subscriber to sit in his home or office and telephone almost any country without delay.

There has, for instance, just been established a direct radio-telephone service between Great Britain and Kenya, a British colony and protectorate in East Africa. The links are combined in London and at Nairobi, near Nairobi, for connection to the respective telephone networks. The wire and the wireless system work together. The charge for the new service is 44 lbs for a three-minute call, and it is believed that there will be fair use of the convenience despite the cost.

Major Tryon, the Postmaster-General, believes that the near future will see the completion of a telephone network, which will afford communication by the spoken word between all parts of the British Commonwealth. This will eliminate distances be still further "shortened." — Edmonton Journal.

Supreme Court Upholds Claim

War Veteran Wins — Works Passage East and Gets $1,303 Award

OTTAWA—Clifford Francis Foxall, a returned soldier who worked his passage east from Victoria, B.C., successfully maintained before the Supreme Court of Canada an award given him in the British Columbia courts for $1,303.06.

The amount represented the judgment in his action for damages against H. F. Shobrook and certain insurance companies.

The case arises out of Foxall's agency for the insurance companies for which Shobrook acted as manager. Foxall became ill in January, 1932, and suffered a nervous breakdown. It was alleged he was not in a fit state to transact business while in hospital.

During his illness he alleged Shobrook broke into his office, seized and carried away all his books of account and records, collected outstanding accounts and converted them to his own use. It is alleged also that Shobrook neither returned his books nor accounted for the business.

Shobrook contended Foxall made an agreement with him to turn over considerable business to him. Foxall alleged he lost considerable money as a result and suffered severe damages which he estimated at $25,000.

Mr. Justice Lucas found the action of the insurance companies was high-handed and awarded Foxall $3,000 damages, but allowed $949.46 by way of counterclaim, this being money due the insurance companies for insurance premiums. The British Columbia Court of Appeal reduced the award to $2,250. From this judgment, appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Without assistance of counsel, Foxall was successful in having his award for $2,250, less counterclaim, maintained.

Play Ball!

Welcome, baseball! It seems only yesterday that football crowded you out. Time flies, and an aging Babe Ruth now sees the opening game out of uniform and from a seat in the grandstand. And now, more reliable than robin or daffodil, the smack of bat against ball is here, in the sandlots as well as the big league parks, as the sure sign of spring.

Doubtless newspapers are soft because they give away so much space to baseball, which is not a big subject by world standards although probably as commercialized a bit of big business as the average corporation. But baseball has none than a commercial side, else it never could have penetrated American consciousness so deeply that no backwoods hamlet is so remote and scarcely any spinster's life so sheltered as to be oblivious to the baseball season.

The wham and bounce of the ball through a clear opening between a couple of outfielders is a common denominator which appeals like to President and longshoremen, small boy and radical agitator. It is calling one into the open air these spring afternoons. — New York World-Telegram.

U.S. Leading Arms Race, Nye Asserts

Munitions Manufacturers To Blame, Declares Senator

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—U.S. Senator Gerald P. Nye (R-ND), chairman of the Senate Munitions Investigating Committee, declared here last week that the "United States leads the armament race."

Nye and Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, addressed nearly 1,000 Harvard College students.

"No other country is doing more to lead to war than your country and mine," Nye said. "Last May and June we sent our navy on maneuvers into the Pacific nearer Japan than our shores. If Japan did that to us, we would demand of the Government how long they intended to put up with Japan's bullying and bluffing."

Some European nations, he said, have increased their armament 30 to 40 per cent. Japan has increased its armament 130 per cent and the United States 197 per cent Nye declared.

"Why?" he continued, "because certain men, the munitions manufacturers and those holding stocks in their companies find that war and the war scare make profits for them."

War, Thomas said, was inherent in a capitalistic, nationalistic government. "We must change the system that breeds war," he added.

Scarcity Causes Imports Jump

Wealth is not money, as those who talk glibly about redistributing it seem to think, comments the Detroit Press.

Wealth is made up of goods and services.

And the only way in which wealth can be increased is by increasing the amount of goods produced and the volume of services rendered.

All that is ancient and primary economic truth.

Yet along comes the Brain Trust and tells Mr. Roosevelt on its doctrines of scarcity, as a means of increasing the wealth and prosperity of the American people.

What have the results been?

The Department of Commerce's statistical report on our foreign trade for 1935 shows that our exports to other countries increased over 1934 only 7 per cent., while our imports from abroad increased 24 per cent.

The most startling shift from exporting American products to importing foreign products is revealed in farm commodities. The following table shows the amounts of certain important farm products which we imported from abroad in the past two years:

Commodity	1934	1935
Wheat, 60-lb. bu. . .	7,736,532	27,438,870
Corn, 56-lb. bu. . .	2,959,256	43,242,296
Oats, 32-lb. bu. . .	5,589,407	10,106,903
Butter, lb.	1,107,020	22,674,642
Beef, fresh, lb. . .	140,474	8,584,114
Pork, fresh, lb. . .	127,746	3,922,609
Canned meat, lb.	46,777,875	76,653,242
Animal oils and fats, edible, lb. . .	1,723,216	18,895,241
Hides, lb.	290,770,332	303,475,633
Tallow, lb.	42,812,299	245,850,922
Carpet Wool, lb.	85,181,282	171,594,101

The tremendous increase in the amount of these products imported last year over the year before is traceable directly to the artificial restriction of production in this country and the throwing open of the domestic market to foreign farmers.

The policy for protecting the home market for industry and agriculture was the basis of our National Development and prosperity—and now the New Deal has repudiated it. And it has repudiated more than that: for it has denied the American farmer the right, which he had always enjoyed to sow what seed he liked and take off at harvest time all that Nature vouchsafed to him.

The inevitable result of compelling him to curtail production has been to make his competitors in other countries rich, while his land lies fallow and unproductive.

Ontario Sitting On a Powder Keg

Smallpox Season Approaching — Only 7 p.c. of pre-School Children Protected.

It is a fact that while much in the way of public instruction remains to be done, people are much more familiar with the superficial facts of health and disease prevention than they were a decade ago. Yet are the people exercising that knowledge for their own protection?

Some authorities are inclined to think the answer is "Yes." In a recent editorial the Toronto Globe declared:

"(The parents) take no pains to guard their children from infection and so are active agents in spreading the disease. There is no reason why a child, properly safeguarded, should fall victim to any of these communicable diseases."

What are some of the facts the Globe was drawing attention to. Consider only one disease, smallpox. Recently a responsible public health authority in Ottawa made the statement that so far as the dangers of that disease were concerned, "we are sitting on a powder keg." Less than 25 per cent. of that city's children, according to the latest records, have been vaccinated. If taken in comparison with the Provincial average that percentage is not to be regarded as understatement. In fact, it is decidedly high.

Statistics released recently show that only 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. of the school population in Ontario is vaccinated. The authorities admit having no check on the number of children vaccinated by the family doctors but they have another means of substantiating their records. Practically all the vaccine is distributed from the Central Laboratory in Toronto and over a period of years the distribution does not begin to approximate the yearly birth-rate."

The city of Toronto, perhaps, has the highest average in the Province and its totals unquestionably boost the Provincial average thereby "favourably" distorting the actual picture. Estimates of that city's medical health officers show between 65 per cent. and 70 per cent. of the school children are vaccinated while less than 35 per cent. of the pre-school children have received that protection.

If less than 15 per cent. of the school children of Ontario have been immunized, and the Toronto ratio can be accepted as the customary spread between the two groups, it is not difficult to calculate that about 7 per cent. of the pre-school children throughout Ontario have been given any attention. On such evidence the authorities base their criticism and none could regard them as alarmists if they were to adopt the description of the Ottawa authority as applicable generally. . . . literally the homes of this Province are astride a powder keg.

The same authorities would be frank to admit that there has not been a serious outbreak of smallpox in Ontario for three and a half years. But they would not alter their previous opinion because of that admission. When they look at their records the only conclusion is that the Province is a fair game for another outbreak with the most favorable smallpox season approaching. And, unfortunately, it is not characteristic of smallpox to pay humans the courtesy of announcing in advance that it is coming. An isolated case here and there would be sufficient by way of a fuse.

PITTSBURGH—Addison H. Gibson, a storekeeper's son who became a noted oil operator, bequeathed approximately $2,500,000 to charity in his will, filed for probate recently.

His estate is to be preserved in a trust fund for poor and needy persons requiring medical aid or hospitalization and to pay for the education of deserving youths.

The fund will be known as the Addison H. Gibson foundation. The rest of Gibson's estate, estimated to have a total value of $2,500,000, was left to relatives and friends.

Gibson who hailed from Armstrong County, Pa., lived most of his life in Pittsburgh. He died in Tulsa, Okla., last April 18, at the age of 75.

His will declared:

"I have, throughout my life time, been impressed by the misfortune of persons in dire need of medical and hospital assistance, but unable to obtain the same because of poverty or limited means. Also by the fact that worthy children of parents who are poor or of limited means cannot obtain the higher education which they crave and which, if they could obtain, might greatly increase their happiness and their usefulness and efficiency."

Sales Tax at New High —Companies Levy Up

Budget Highlights

OTTAWA—Following are highlights in the tax and tariff changes announced Friday:

Deficit for the current fiscal year to be less than $100,000,000 compared with $162,000,000 in the last year.

Sales tax increased to eight per cent. from six per cent. and corporation income tax rate increased to 15 per cent. to bring added revenue of $29,000,000.

Three year exemption from corporation income tax of any metalliferous mine coming into production between now and Jan. 1, 1940.

Rearrangement of excise and customs taxes on automobiles designed to lower prices of small cars to consumer.

Drop of 1 1/4 cents a gallon in gasoline duty was from 2 1/4 cents a gallon to one cent.

Excise tax on Canadian brandies reduced to $3 per gallon—now $4.

Downward revision of 104 items in the tariff schedule and upward revision of 12, including 50 items reduced under preferential tariff and no increases.

Heavy reductions in tariff rates on British cotton and silk fabrics and manufactured cotton and artificial silk goods from intermediate tariff countries including United States.

Free entry from all countries of goods or articles imported for personal use of the blind and free entry of all educational sound and silent films.

Tariff on agricultural implements from intermediate tariff countries to 7 1/2 per cent.

Duty exemption up to $100 on goods for personal use brought in by tourists travelling abroad providing they are absent 48 hours and that exemption is granted only once every four months.

Flowery Kingdom Fond of Beauty

Anything in the Form of Beauty or Youth Is Adored

LONDON, Ont.—Painting a vivid picture of Japan, Mrs. MacQueen Baldwin, of Toronto, a missionary on furlough, told in particular of the diversity and strangeness of the religious of that country.

In an interview Mrs. Baldwin said: "In Japan there are temples in every corner, temples with gorgeous rituals and ornate robes for the officiating priests."

In speaking of her evangelical work, she said that in Japan strangers must make the calls first; that is the accepted social procedure. In one case to which she referred, the woman said: "I have been sitting and waiting for you to come and see me."

Children are almost worshipped. Anything in the form of beauty or youth is adored. "Even the cobbler working on the street will have before him a vase of flowers or a potted plant, at which he will gaze fondly." In the schools, flower arranging is one of the elementary subjects.

The factories of Japan are not as poorly managed as many suppose. Mrs. Baldwin pointed out. The larger ones are under government supervision but in the privately-owned corporations, "sweat shop" labor is used. Formerly the country was ridden with tuberculosis because of the inferior food and the lack of exercise, but in more recent years conditions are being improved. An extensive athletic program has been introduced.

Although retired, Mrs. Baldwin will return at the end of August with her daughter, Cicely, to the country she knows so well.

Figures Increase On Clay Products

TORONTO—Output of clay products in Ontario, which dropped sharply in 1932, is slowly recovering according to the preliminary report recently issued by the mines department of Ontario.

Face brick output, the largest item, showed a value of $345,917 in 1935 compared with $479,850 in 1934 and $351,292 in 1933. The 1931 output had a value of $1,278,954.

The value of common brick produced by Ontario plants last year was $209,109, compared with $227,276 in the previous year and $163,328 in 1933.

Structural, roofing and floor tile is also on the increase with a value of $166,281 in 1935 against $120,981 in 1934 and $74,064 in the previous year. Clay pottery production shows little change, holding around $51,000 to $52,050 yearly through the last three years.

Total of Dominion Taxation Increased Approximately 30 Millions — Trade Parleys Pend.

OTTAWA—Finance Minister Dunning presented a high-low budget to Parliament Friday—high taxes and low tariffs.

Reporting the biggest peace-time deficit in Canada's history, he increased taxes by an estimated $26,000,000 to $30,000,000 this year, headed by a jolting revision of the sales tax from six to eight per cent., the highest point it ever reached.

Income tax was boosted to still higher levels on corporations, although individuals were not affected by the changes.

The finance minister swung a broad-sweep at tariffs covering many commodities in every-day use. He lowered duties on yarns and fabrics of cotton and artificial silk, gasoline, farm implements, automobiles, certain empire tobacco and printers' supplies.

Canadians will be permitted to go to the United States or any other country, stay there 48 hours and return with $100 of personal goods duty free. The duty exemption is limited to three times a year.

In this examination of the national bankbook, the finance minister reported a deficit of $162,191,000 and then announced it was the intention of the Government to "end in the shortest practicable time the era of recurring deficits."

Then he went on to say: "That purpose the Government intends to pursue steadily as an essential condition of the restoration of business confidence and the free functioning of private enterprise. This, it is believed, will contribute more effectively to the solution of the problems of unemployment and depression than any other single thing which governments can do."

Deficits Not Ended

But the end of Federal deficits will not come this year. Estimated expenses of all sorts will total $509,000,000. Revenues, including new taxes, will aggregate $415,000,000 to $417,000,000, leaving a deficit of slightly less than $100,000,000.

Of the new taxes, Mr. Dunning had this to say: "I am confident the amount of new taxation which we feel it necessary to impose will not have a deterrent effect on the business trend which is now definitely upward. Rather I do believe that businessmen and the public generally will gain new confidence from our endeavor to grapple vigorously with our problems of national finance and will be willing to co-operate wholeheartedly in sharing the new burdens which are believed necessary."

Declares Rubbish Big Fire Hazard

Windsor Fire Chief Commends Clean-Up Campaign

WINDSOR — In conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce's clean-up campaign now in progress, Fire Chief DeFields urged a city-wide removal of all rubbish as a means of eliminating fire hazards.

Observing that a large percentage of the fires of the last few months have had their origin in rubbish, Chief DeFields pointed out that it costs the fire department, and therefore the taxpayers, just as much money to answer an alarm to a small blaze as it does a large one.

"I don't think the clean-up campaign affects any department of the city as much as it does the fire department," he remarked. "Too many of our fires lately have been started in rubbish piles."

Chief DeFields also pointed out that during March, 38 fires were started by children playing with matches and observed that 80 per cent. of these were the result of "a child, a match and a rubbish pile."

"A rubbish pile to a child with a match is a great temptation. If we can't keep the children away from matches we can at least clean up the rubbish heaps," he observed. "A match is the cheapest plaything for a child in the first cost, but the second cost is very high."

The need of cleaning out garages is seen in the number of fires in such buildings, Chief DeFields added. Useless bits of oily rags, that could easily be cleaned out, are the chief hazards, he commented.

Remarking that they are the danger spots of the homes for fires, the chief urged that particular efforts be taken towards cleaning up basements.

"A fire in the basement fills the house with smoke. People are smothered before they are burned," he warned.

Canadian Press Wins Tribute

Year's Record — W. B. Preston Extolls Coverage, Accuracy

TORONTO—In a year crowded with extraordinary events, the Canadian Press has done a very good job, said W. B. Preston of the Brantford Expositor in his presidential address to the annual meeting of the Co-operative News-Gathering Association of the daily newspapers of Canada.

"Through its own efforts and those of its allies," he continued, "the Associated Press, Reuters and Havas and through the splendid co-operation of the daily newspapers, the Canadian Press supplied to its members most complete coverage of all the news domestic, and foreign and fully maintained its reputation for speed and accuracy and the general reliability of its reports."

Discussing radio broadcasting of news, Mr. Preston said: "If there is to be news on the air, it is vital from the standpoint of the national welfare that it be in control of an organization like the Canadian Press that has the British and Canadian viewpoint, and whose fundamental principles of accuracy and impartiality in the preparation of its news have been well established. It was for this reason the Canadian Press has offered to supply, free of charge, bulletins for three or four news broadcasts each day, available to all radio stations."

Speaking of the Dominion and Provincial elections, he said: "To handle the news of an election campaign, especially one for the Dominion, with its many groups competing for publicity, each fearful of the others' getting special favors in the newspapers, is a very hazardous sort of responsibility, one requiring the most exacting attention to detail. That we should have emerged from this year of combats at the polls with practically no complaints of our service is a splendid tribute to the general manager and his staff and is a record of which we as members of the Canadian Press have every reason to be proud. The daily newspapers of this country have never appeared to better advantage than during this very extraordinary period, and the reliable character of their news reports has been in line with the very highest ideals of modern journalism."

More Discipline Needed in Home

Lack of This Factor Accounts For Much Juvenile Crime

J. Edgar Hoover, head of Uncle Sam's G-men, told the New York Round Table Forum the other day that an amazing number of the crimes charged to the American underworld should really be charged to the underworlding's parents writes the Kitchener Record.

Some 2 per cent. of the crime in the United States, said Mr. Hoover, is committed by lads who are not yet old enough to vote. Many of these youngsters are still of high school age. Practically all of them come from homes where papa and mama just couldn't be bothered to enforce discipline set up high normal standard and, in general, are to it that Junior set his feet in the way that he should go.

Worse yet, continued Mr. Hoover, when one of these wayward Teds does get into the toils of the law, his parents come down to court with only one thought in mind — to get him out of trouble. That he may need a swift rap over the knuckles to straighten him out never enters into their heads.

They weep over him and cuddle up to him and save him, if they can, from paying the penalty of his misdeeds; and, by the same token, they leave him feeling that it is all right if he goes out and steals another car or holds up another filling station, as long as the law doesn't catch him.

The attack on crime, then, Mr. Hoover concludes must begin with "a reconstruction of the American viewpoint toward better parental discipline and a greater sense of law abidance beginning in the home."

This is so undeniably true as to be self-evident. The police courts, jails, penitentiaries and death chambers in the United States tell an unspeakable tragic story; and it is a story which, in the vast majority of cases, begins back in some American home in which the father and mother made a terrible mess of their most important job.

Back of many a criminal stands a parent who failed.

THEY COME BACK FOR BRAY CHICKS YEAR AFTER YEAR

WHEN a man buys 200 Bray Chicks—

And takes 204 out of the chick boxes—

And raises 201—

One more than he paid for—

And the 201 suit him "right down to the ground"—

What happens?

Well, naturally, he writes (as did this customer at Hannon, Ont.):

"I was certainly well pleased, so will you send me this year's price list. I hope to have the same good luck this Spring."

And, ordering BRAY chicks again, he can very properly expect the same "good luck". For, after all, it isn't good luck. It's good management. Bray Chicks are bred and hatched to behave that way.

There's no reason why they shouldn't do it for YOU, too. Order yours today, and see if they don't.

CHAPTER IV
Grimsby Village — Autumn 1859
Installation 29

"What's all this crying about that I hear. Are you boys fighting?" asked Mr. Calder coming from the barn. There was sudden silence. "If you boys want to stay and help I don't want any more of that," he added, going over to a new arrival coming up the lane. It was Charles E. Woolverton, and he had in the back of his wagon big boxes of cut-up apples.

"May I have these made into cider, Mr. Calder?" he asked. "You're always so generous with the use of your cider press every year I thought I'd bring these up. Linus here came along to help."

"Yes, indeed, the boys will look after that. Your boy is growing fast." "Oh, he's stretching up," Linus grinned, clucked to the horses and joined the boys with the apples.

"I hear you are going to ship quite a few winter apples this year from your fine orchard. You're ahead of the rest of us in quality alright," said Mr. Calder.

"Yes, they're young trees yet, but are bearing pretty well, although the cold winters of '55 and '56 were hard on them too. How did your grafts come through that Peasey put on your big trees?"

"Oh, they're fine. Come over and see them." The two men walked over to the orchard. "We find it's a great help not to have to haul the fruit out to Hamilton over that road. The railroad is a God-send now so many apples are coming on and we'll be shipping more every year."

"I guess you've got the best and biggest apple orchard coming on in the country."

"So they say. We got $2.00 a barrel last year for our stuff. Now that A. M. Smith, my good brother-in-law has come in with me, we expect to build up quite a fruit business. He's very enthusiastic about this Niagara Peninsula, especially here around Grimsby where the Escarpment is highest and nearest to the lake."

"How is the big strawberry bed working out he put in a couple of years ago?"

"It did remarkably well this spring. We shipped out a good many crates of them too this spring and got 10c a quart. Not so bad was it? A. M. is the farmer though. I never was at heart I guess. I like it and don't neglect it but now he's come in with me the farm ought to go right ahead. He has most optimistic ideas and wants to carry out things the way they did in New York state."

"I hope he's not disappointed," said Mr. Calder. "And now that you have more time I suppose you'll be turning into a politician and be an M.P. like your illustrious father first thing we know. How do you like being on the Township Council?"

"Fine, fine," Mr. Woolverton declared. "I hope I can save a few dollars for our people now and again. We must beware of political hobbles though. Our stone road up the mountain to Smithville cost us too much. We'll be a long time paying $40,000 and we're paying well for our drill sheds. But Calder," and he clapped his hand on the other man's shoulder, "what I'm most interested in is our young people and our Union Bible School. I guess you know that. After all, the greatest fruits come from there, spiritual fruits that really count."

"I agree with you," said Mr. Calder. "The church is the backbone of the nation, and the young people are the future nation. I understand you well, of course you know John Wesley was the founder of our faith. He lived practically throughout the whole of the last century from 1703 to 1791. The big churches of the Established Church of England wouldn't let him preach in their halls when he lowered the key of personal religion to reach all classes of people, and no small parish church could contain his big congregations so he had to resort to the fields and out-of-doors. That was the beginning of the Camp meeting idea, and it has led to a great spiritual awakening throughout all Canada, the United States and of course in England where that extraordinary man lived. I was taking note from our official church paper, The Christian Guardian, of the camp meetings in Upper Canada besides our own held this month, and found there was one held at Brampton, Oakville, Belleville, Woodstock, Goderich, Whitby and many others and the Sunday congregations mounted up into the thousands just like ours did. Do you know Rev. W. S. Griffin? He sent in quite an account of the one held in Simcoe where he is stationed."

Mr. Woolverton smiled broadly. "Yes, I know him. He's quite a joker. I'll always remember a joke he told on himself at a tea meeting you Methodists had. Let me see—it was in '51 that he was stationed on the Grimsby Circuit, a young probationer under Rev. Alexander Green. That was before you came to Grimsby and married into this illustrious family."

"I guess it was, but what was this joke he told on himself?"

"Well, he had just come to the circuit and was sent up here to call on Wm. Beamer, your father-in-law. When he came up he found a very old gentleman sitting at the ravine with a blunderbuss, waiting to shoot rattle snakes that might come up."

Mr. Griffin said, "Is this Mr. Beamer?"

"That's what they call me."

"Then he said, 'I'm the new Methodist preacher.'"

"Oh yes," he answered without looking up. "It will be my son you want. He always keeps a gang of them hanging around here."

Griffin thought he'd be an interesting old man, so tried to make friends with him.

"You don't know me, Mr. Beamer, but you will know my Uncle Smith Griffin of Smithville."

"Know him? I guess I do. He cheated me out of $200. I ought to know him," he said gruffly.

Griffin said he gave up after that feeling he better know a little more about the matter before proceeding further.

Both men laughed heartily at the story. "That would be just like grandfather John Beamer. He'd be past ninety then," said Mr. Calder, "and have had that Sunday School on Adelaide Street for a good many years?"

Mr. Woolverton stroked his beard in meditation. "It is quite a while since I began it. Twenty-one years ago to be exact, in 1858. I had been going to college to study for the ministry and didn't realize till I went away to a larger place how much the children of the village needed Sunday School training. The Anglicans had their own church and Sunday School, but the children of the Baptists, Presbyterians and Methodists had no place to go. We each had our separate church services as we do now, the Presbyterians meeting in the morning, ours in the afternoon and yours in the evening in the Presbyterian church. But there was nothing definite for the children. So strong did the conviction come to me that here was my place, that I gave up the ministry idea, and dedicated my life to the children and young people of Grimsby."

"And a splendid work you are making of it," said Mr. Calder. "Then when was it you built the Bible School on Adelaide St.?"

"I built that nine years after I started in '47. We needed a building of our own, and I have felt greatly repaid for the money I put into it. I have eight excellent teachers now and need another one, the school is growing so. By the way, Calder, would you consider taking it?"

"I might just do that, I'm pretty busy as leader of the class meeting on Friday nights, but I think I will. How did you like our Camp meeting? I saw you down there several times."

"Glorious," said Mr. Woolverton decisively. "It almost made me wish I were a Methodist. If I weren't such a dyed-in-the-wool Baptist, that camp meeting might have turned me. I especially enjoyed John Wakefield. They got pretty excited sometimes, but we need to get excited. Where did your camp meeting idea originate?"

"Well, of course you know John Wesley was the founder of our faith. He lived practically throughout the whole of the last century from 1703 to 1791. The big churches of the Established Church of England wouldn't let him preach in their halls when he lowered the key of personal religion to reach all classes of people, and no small parish church could contain his big congregations so he had to resort to the fields and out-of-doors. That was the beginning of the Camp meeting idea, and it has led to a great spiritual awakening throughout all Canada, the United States and of course in England where that extraordinary man lived. Both men laughed heartily at the story. "That would be just like grandfather John Beamer. He'd be past ninety then," said Mr. Calder, "and crochety if he wanted to be. They say he used to wear a straw hat in the winter and a fur cap in the summer just to show his contempt for fashion. He never quite got over it when his son Will changed over to the other church on marrying a Methodist girl, yet he liked his new daughter-in-law well enough to want them to live with them when he and his son Will built this homestead. He was a staunch Presbyterian, you know, and had much to do with the building of that church in '33. But when the time came he wanted to be buried in the Old St. Andrew's churchyard where in those first early days he had earned a lot, along with other first settlers, clearing up the land that Robert Nelles donated for that first log church in 1794. So that's where he lies beside his wife who was 97 when she died a few years before him."

"I remember her quite well," said Mr. Woolverton. "A little woman, dainty, with small hands and feet. She was wiry though."

"She must have been," said Mr. Calder. "She came over with him to this unbroken wild country in 1786 and they had three small children, carrying them in baskets on the sides of the horses. I understand they started from their old home in New Jersey with the Smiths and the Pettits in November, thinking they could travel better in the winter over the ice and wanting to be here in the spring. They didn't arrive here until April when she had her fourth child a month later. That's the log cabin they built up there on the hill."

"That's a story of heroism in a few words," said Mr. Woolverton. "What I can't understand is how the women and children stood it."

"It evidently was but the beginning of their trials," continued Mr. Calder. "What did they experience here that year after their long trek of unbelievable hardship through the winter?"

The years of 1787 and '88 were the terrible hungry years throughout Upper and Lower Canada. There was no harvest, and when they had used up the few supplies they had brought with them and the severe winter wore away, the spring of 1788 found them almost devoid of food and seed. Distress was general but in Niagara Peninsula and around the Bay of Quinte suffering was most intense. Food was everywhere in great demand. One neighbor traded 100 acres of land for a few pounds of flour, a cow for 8 bushels of potatoes.

The drought and heat dried up the wells, crops withered, cattle died, game and wild birds disappeared and forest fires added to their terror and misery.

"We ate roots and greens from the woods," said grandfather, "and noticing what our few pigs ate we avoided getting anything that was poisonous. We had to kill our dogs for food and a horse that we needed to do our farm work. Oh what do we know of suffering and privation, Woolverton, and how thankful we should be to them for what we've got now. Yet grandmother lived to be ninety-seven, delicate as she looked."

The two men sat on a fallen tree in deep thought. "The Pettits and Smiths went through that time too. It must have been terrible. It was the Pettits got my grandfather, Jonathan Woolverton, interested in coming over. They're related. I'll tell you more about that some day."

"Oh yes, your people came not long after that, didn't they?"

"It was quite a little while before he came the second time to settle."

Nathan O'Neil was about to pass them with a wheelbarrow of apples when Mr. Woolverton, ever interested in boys, stopped him. "Where are you from, my lad? I don't think I've seen you before, have I?"

"No sir, I come from away up country over there," he said throwing his head over sideways.

"That's rather indefinite," smiled Mr. Calder. "You'd enjoy Mr. Woolverton's Bible School, Nathan, I'll take you down with me if you'd like to come into my new class Sunday afternoon."

The boy accepted with alacrity. "That's good quick work," said Mr. Woolverton. "What kind of apples are those?" He picked out a large good looking apple and started eating it.

"That's a little hard to say. We call it the twist apple. The tree is right ahead of us. Funny thing about that tree. When grandfather planted out the small bunch of apple saplings he brought from New Jersey on that memorable trip, I guess he had a few left over and stuck them in the ground all together. See how it grew up? The different kinds of trees twisted around each other, like a rope, but the apples are all alike and are a new variety of their own. We get a good many barrels of No. 1 apples off that tree."

"They are good tasting—and what a tree! Can we span it?" The two men tried to meet hands encircling the trunk but it was too big. "It's three times as large as any of the others, and they are big. That's a curiosity."

Turning they walked back to the cider press.

"You didn't come to our first Fruit

GRIMSBY CHAPTER

NO. 195, O.E.S.

The regular meeting of Grimsby Chapter No. 195, Order of the Eastern Star, was held on Tuesday evening, May 5th in the Masonic Hall, St. Laura E. Mogg, Worthy Matron, presiding. Arrangements were made for the installation of officers to be held at a special meeting May 19th. The annual reports were received and approved, the Worthy Matron thanking the officers and members for their co-operation and assistance during her year.

The refreshment committee served lunch at the close of the meeting.

SKY BIRDS HERE

Two specimens of the Common Gallinule also known as the Blue Rail, a somewhat unusual visitor to these parts, were seen Friday. One was at Vinemount and the other near the black bridge near the civic waterworks plant, Stoney Creek. They are quite attractive in their brown and slate plumage with scarlet bill and green legs.

Growers' Assn. meeting held in Hamilton at the Mechanic Institute last winter.

"No," said Mr. Calder, "It was hard getting down the mountain about that time. Too much snow. Do you think it will amount to anything?"

"Yes, I do. If we grow fruit to any extent in Upper Canada, I think we need to get together. It's too bad though the man we made our President died a few months ago. He took the real initiative for the whole thing."

"You mean Judge Campbell of Niagara-on-the-Lake? I thought they'd make him President."

"Yes, you see he had been thinking about it for some time and last year had a small organization meeting at his home. There was Dr. Beadle of St. Catharines, Rev. Dr. Burnet of Hamilton and Judge Logie of Hamilton, all very prominent men, so it is most unfortunate that Judge Campbell died. I went to Hamilton with A. M. and I learned a lot at that convention. There weren't many of us there, considering it took in such a big territory and he was disappointed but it was a beginning."

THE INDEPENDENT

Are We Justified In Taking Life?

The warden nodded his head. The executioner spun a brass wheel. A miniature lightning stroke flashed through the body of a man in the chair. Blood corpuscles disintegrated, nerve fibres broke. The man in the chair was dead.

Do you believe in capital punishment?

We asked that question of a fairly large number of people. Some favored it; the majority didn't.

"Public sentiment would release every murderer in six months after conviction," a judge observed. "We convict them on logic but the people would release them on sentiment."

"To hang a man is barbarous," another man strongly argued. "Where they have no capital punishment law they have no more murders than they have where hanging is practiced."

Canada has a Dominion wide capital punishment law. Some of the states of the U.S.A. have a life imprisonment law, while a review of the number of murders in these states contrasted with the number in the states where capital punishment is practiced, indicates that taking the life of the murderer makes little difference as to the number of murders.

Strike one in favour of life imprisonment! Yet, upon analysis we discover such findings are not very valuable. We are told that for every thirty murders committed in the United States, where death is the penalty there is only one execution. Evidently it is a comparatively safe pastime to commit murder in that country. You have 29 chances out of 30 for getting away. That being the case it makes little difference whether life imprisonment or the death penalty is ordered. The proponents of life imprisonment get scant encouragement from a study of the records of American jurisprudence.

To kill or not to kill? That is the question. When a man takes a life are we justified in taking his life?

We hang a man for two reasons. We wish to punish him for his crime and we hope to deter others from future murders. If these reasons are not substantial then taking the life of a criminal is a doubtful procedure.

If we do not hang a murderer what are we to do with him? We cannot release him, for he will doubtless commit another murder by reason of leniency shown him in the first instance. Give him life imprisonment, you tell us. What difference would that make? In either instance we have really taken the life of the murderer. The first method (hanging) is mercifully short. The second method (life imprisonment) is just as fatal but more painful. Are we being fair or simply sentimental when we send a man to jail for life rather than to the gallows? Life inside a narrow cell, day in and day out, week in and week out, year in and year out, with no hope of anything else, is surely the death penalty in an aggravated form.

Much has been written as to the merits and demerits of how life ought to be taken,—hanging, the electric chair or the lethal chamber.

What difference does it make? Such debate might be interesting but rather amusing as well. Any method is effective so long as the victim is killed painlessly. In our arguments it is our own sensibilities we defend rather than those of the poor wretch whose life we take. When a hangman pulls the head off the victim we become indignant at his atrocious bungling, forgetting that it is our own feeling which are violated rather than those of the condemned man. We fancy the man hanged doesn't care very much about it. To him it makes little difference whether decapitation takes place or not. In fact, he might get some comfort out of the thought that his head would come off, thus guaranteeing instantaneous death.

The method of destroying life is of minor detail so long as it is painless but the right to destroy life at any time or for any reason is surely food for serious and contemplative thought. —Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Spring

Now, at God's touch, the winter's woods
Have come to life again,
His step upon the mountain's brow,
I hear:
The orchard's scented bridal flowers appear,
To gladden hearts of men.
His garments flutter as they pass
Across the shimmering sea,
At touch of dew His voice—'tis e'er
A clear call,
And then, bright sunshine flooding
all
This spring-time ecstasy.

North Ontario Flirts With Thought of a New Province

The suggestion advanced by J. E. Crawford, M.L.A. for Fort William, that Northern Ontario may in the future secede and form a separate province is not a new one. It has been made from time to time for over a generation. Indeed, a quarter century or more ago tentative steps toward such an end had made considerable progress.

That the idea should come up frequently is not entirely surprising and while in recent years it has been heard more often from the northwestern section of the province between the lakes and Manitoba, Algoma can sympathize with its viewpoint. Northern Ontario is a vast area, larger than any country in Europe except Russia, larger than the United Kingdom and France taken together. Algoma alone is larger than several European countries.

Naturally in such a large territory there is a wide variety of problems and the people of the north have not infrequently felt that the Ontario Legislature has properly appreciated neither the extent of Northern Ontario resources nor the diversity of its needs.

Kipling once wrote of England that "she thinks her Empire still is the Strand and Holborn Hill." And similarly many in the north feel that the Ontario Legislature as a group think that Northern Ontario is the narrow strip along the T. & N.O. The development of gold mines in Michipicoten, Long Lac, Patricia is breaking down that view but a proper understanding of the area would have brought that development sooner.

It is agreed that various Ontario Governments, including the present one, have spent large sums in the north and have done a great deal toward opening it up. But even they've had the difficulty at times in getting the support of Old Ontario members for their program.

It is not surprising then, if Northern Ontario sometimes flirts with the idea of a separate province, the members of whose legislature would naturally be more conversant with its problems than a legislature made up for the most part of men unacquainted with the north.

On the other hand, of course, legislation and administrative organizations cost money and Canada is already overburdened.

But while a separate province in Northern Ontario may be impractical the occasional demand for it indicates a real need for a better understanding of the problems of a great domain. —Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Teach Daughter Elements of Beauty Canada Does Not Encourage Women To Be Aviators

Your Help Now Will Be of Use to Her in Later Years

If your small daughter is taught the elements of beauty now, she will acquire basic training invaluable later. This does not mean that on her fifth birthday she should be presented with a dressing table overflowing with sophisticated cosmetics. But she can learn, just as casually as she learns to wash her face, not only fundamental routines, but many of the beauty precautions that prevent blemishes from appearing.

A thorough brushing of the hair each day is simple, yet the most important method of maintaining the natural glossiness and vigorous resiliency of the hair. There is really no good reason why little darlings should not brush their own hair, instead of having mother do it.

Mother will have to guard against excessive sunburn at the beach, young, tender skins are very susceptible to the dangerous actinic rays that harden the skin and produce blemishes.

Nail-biting is a juvenile evil that a mother should suppress. It makes the cuticle tough and hard, spoils the shape of the fingers, and besides, is an unlovely habit. Occasional manicures will develop daughter's pride in the appearance of her hand. While on the subject of nails, a thought should be given to toenails—careful trimming avoids painful ingrowing.

Little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice, but if they stuff themselves with these pleasant ingredients too much they will grow sideways faster than they grow up. The wise parent watches her daughter's weight. If the diet is carefully checked and an abnormal overweight condition still persists without apparent cause, a physician should be consulted.

Posture should be firmly squelched. Not only will it spoil a potential Cupid's bow mouth, but it is an expression of silliness, no mood for a child supposed to be gaining a background of beauty.

With your experience gained from the study on hand-lettering as covered in the past few lessons No's 95 to 100, you should now be able to lay out the whole alphabet of Roman Italics both in Capitals and Lower case letters.

Remember, stick to the known dividuality in hand-lettering usually brings home the bacon, in other words repeat orders.

FIG. 240 illustrates six letters in Capitals and six in Lower case in the Roman Italic style. Can you finish the alphabet? You should not have any difficulty now.

styles of lettering before you attempt to originate new and individual styles of lettering. When you feel that you wish to try your hand at originating new styles of letters, do not forget, that alphabets are original, only so far as in the individual treatment, and technique alters the appearance without change of basic principle. So if everything you letter shows "individual technique," your work would be original and would be in great demand. Individuality predominates. In-

Look Pleasant

We cannot, of course, all be handsome, And it's hard for us all to be good; We are sure now and then to be lonesome, And always do as we should. To be patient is not always easy, To be cheerful is much harder still, But at least we can always be pleasant, If we make up our minds that we will.

And it pays every time to be kindly Although we feel worried and blue, If you smile at the world and look cheerful, The world will smile back to you. So try to brace up and look pleasant, No matter how low you are down; Good humour is always contagious, But you banish your friends when you frown. —Selected.

PROBLEMS OF EVERY DAY LIFE

By Dr. M. M. Lappin

Trusting Other People

"I have bought a farm," writes a young man, "and in making my deals for equipping it, I trusted to so people's pretended honesty, and so different times I got duped. My widowed mother often scolds me, but I know she could not have done any better. Worse still, she talks about it to other people and I get very discouraged — I would like to have a good life partner who would be true to me and encourage me, but I lack the social ability other young people have."

Well, some folks are too trusting, and they suffer as the result. We learn by experience. Unfortunately, this young man trusted the wrong people, but he should not let that make him suspicious of everybody. There are many honest folks in the world even if occasionally we are "let down" by those whom we trust. If we allow those "let downs" make us suspicious of everything and everybody, then life will become a burdensome sort of thing. When we have trusted someone who has "let us down" the best thing to do is to take it philosophically and remember that, for every dishonest person there are, perhaps, a score who can be trusted.

In the matter of transacting business deals a man should always think well and use common sense. It always pays to make sure, but the trouble is we cannot always be sure. Just because life is what it is there is always an element of risk in it. What we have to guard against is the danger of letting such disappointments sour us so that we lose faith in our fellows.

This young man should point out to his mother that, in talking about his affairs to others, she is really doing him more harm than good. Why not take her into your confidence and win her cooperation? She would be less likely then to talk about it, for she would feel partly responsible.

How do you know you lack the social ability other young people have? Have you tried mixing with others? My advice would be to take advantage of every opportunity for mingling with other people that presents itself. Perhaps you are thinking too much about yourself. Some folks are so anxious to make an impression when they are in company that they make the wrong kind of impression. Forget all about the impression you want to make and just be yourself.

You could, of course, improve your own personality and prepare yourself for social contacts, and the best way of doing that is by improving your mental "stock in trade." Go in for some good reading. Acquaint yourself with the ways of men. Read the good books and the leading articles in good newspapers so that you will be informed on topics of the day and be able to converse freely and intelligently on current affairs. After all, the ability to be sociable lies within the individual. We all have it. What we have to do is to cultivate it and make use of it. Some folks might advise this young man to read one of the standard books on etiquette, but my advice would be to be quite natural, to observe others, and to be guided by common sense.

and correct conversational English are inculcated in employees. Admirable qualities for salespersons — as also for those who go down to the stores to shop.

It is not difficult to imagine that this cultivation of the art of thoughtful, pleasant contact is joined by the Denver employers with a corresponding interest in their employees' welfare. In too many cities, unhappily, store wages are notoriously below a subsistence level. Abuses such as sending employees home on rainy or stormy mornings are too common, to the loss of the day's pay being added car fare which their meager wages can ill afford. "Good manners" and courteous attention are most apt to be encountered in those stores noted for fair pay and humane consideration of workers.

Spring Is Here

Now Is The Time To Clean Up and Whitewash The Barn

Science has come to the aid of the housewife with kettles that whistle, coffee percolators that ring bells, and toasters that chime at the psychological moment, but so far no substitute has been found for father's "elbow grease" in whitewashing a fence, barn or cellar. Certainly, he might use a spray gun for a time, but experience has proved that applying the right kind of whitewash with a brush is still an effective method. Even in the suburban districts of towns there is more than the fence to be attended to; there are the poultry house and other buildings that look better for a spring touch-up. As to the farms, the number of buildings to be whitewashed inside and out is many.

Inquiries have often been made as to the possibility of a waterproof whitewash for outside work that will not present a picture of drab desolation after a shower of rain. There is such a whitewash made in the following proportions: slake 62 pounds of quicklime in 12 gallons of hot water, and add two pounds of salt and one pound of sulphate of zinc dissolved in two gallons of water. To this add two gallons of skim-milk. An ounce of alum, though not essential, would improve the wash. Salt should be omitted if the whitewash is required for metal surfaces which rust.

A disinfectant whitewash is often desired for farm buildings. Here is a recipe. First, 50 pounds of lime is dissolved in eight gallons of boiling water. To this is added six gallons of hot water which has ten pounds of salt and one pound of alum dissolved in it. A can of lye is added to every 25 gallons of the mixture. A pound of cement to every three gallons is gradually added and thoroughly stirred. The object of using the alum is to prevent the lime rubbing off. Cement makes a more creamy mixture, so that it is easier to apply and more surface is covered. Lye is added for disinfecting purposes, but a quart of cresol disinfectant to every eight gallons would serve the same purpose. Lye is preferred when the colour is to be kept white.

Women And War

It is the women of the world who are paying for Japanese military adventures in the Orient, writes the Victoria Colunist. The price is collected through the sales of silk stockings, rayon panties and synthetic pearls. Women, therefore, throughout the world may be in theory pacifists; in practice, they provide the sinews of war. There is another illustration of this. Germany is able to rear because she can sell special dyes and synthetic jewellery. It is for the benefit of woman's adornment that the purchases are made. The female of the species has always been a paradox in thought and action. She is more so than ever today, because her worship at the shrine of fashion is defeating her pious attitude on the peace of the world.

It is fashions, more than anything else, which increase in velocity the circulation of money, a point which seems to have been ignored in the Douglas Social Credit gospel. During 1935 the estimate is that $2,000,000,000 worth of women's apparel became obsolete; it was not worn out, it just went out of fashion. The amount quoted had to be spent on apparel for replacement. This meant an immense sum of money going into circulation. A change in women's fashions has this effect to an infinitely greater degree than any of the nostrums devised by economic academicians would have were put into practice. In 1935 $1,000,000,000 was spent for powder, cold cream, lipsticks, and other aids to female attraction. Women's fashions as a whole are a bigger industry than any other, bigger than gold production, than lumbering, than mining, than agriculture itself. It is through production connected with changing fashions, and because of the taxation involved, that nations, to a greater extent than ever in the past are able to provide the paraphernalia of war. It is a portentous thought that women, by abandoning adornment, could give a practical demonstration against increased armaments.

Faith

It is enough
That in this life we climb
Steep hills erect, nor heed the end.
If we but know
That out of the darkness, strife and pain
Will pass away, and light
Come once again.
It is enough
To trust, when mists creep down
And drift across, obscuring way-side paths,
If but each day
We with His over soul be knit,
And from His Fire of Love—
Our flame be lit.

beneficent effect, particularly on any depressed members of the audience, judging by the many laughs and hearty applause which greeted the players.

Miss Madge Croft as Mrs. Hanson, suffering from a seemingly incurable state of depression created much merriment, by her almost agonizing attempts at laughing as a cure prescribed by her physician of modern beliefs, Dr. St. George Carey, capably taken by Strachan McCaskill.

Miss Nem Bourne as Mary Ellen Perry, the consoling neighbor, managed to upset the whole Hanson household with her meddlesome interference and evoked many laughs with her comparisons of cases she had known, similar to that of Mrs. Hanson, where the results were always disastrous. However, much to the surprise and delight of the other members of the household, the cure began to show results and the patient was also soon able to laugh and enjoy living, the contagion of her happy spirits spreading to the audience present.

Vernon Croft as Mrs. Hanson's wisecracking brother drew a good many laughs. The other members of the cast also impersonated their parts addian, Cornelius Johns, was brought to the home of a married daughter in North Grimsby township by a son, with whom he had been living on the Bell farm in Nelson township. The owner of the farm, on which Johns' daughter lived in a tenant house, objected to the man being there and so notified Councillor Durham.

INDIAN NOT A GRIMSBY CITIZEN

An investigation is alleged to have revealed that the daughter was in no position to look after her father, while medical examination is said to have shown the man 'to be suffering from a serious ailment.'

Efforts were made by Mr. Durham to have the Indian agent of the Municipality provide for the man, but he refused on the grounds Johns had been away from the reserve for more than 18 months. Nelson township did agree to supply provisions to a reasonable quantity, but did not agree to be responsible for medical costs and hospitalization.

According to a letter from C. E. Wood, relief officer of Nelson township, to Councillor Durham, Johns' son was instructed to take his father back to Nelson, but replied that he had no room for him. The elderly man was sent back to Nelson on April 20 by Councillor Durham and his daughter and son-in-law were sent along in the car as company on the trip. On arrival in Nelson, however, the farmer on whose place Johns had lived refused to allow him to stay there and he was sent to the reeve of Nelson. This officer allegedly signed a commitment to Hamilton hospital and arranged to pay the sum of $2 to the man who had driven Johns to Nelson if he would take him to the hospital. The Nelson reeve allegedly gave this man the name of the township clerk and told him to send an account which he, the reeve, would O.K. for payment. This motorist, J. Walters, of Grimsby Beach, stated Tuesday night that he had not as yet sent the bill.

Letters Explain Situation
Councillor Durham is in receipt of the following letters from the relief officer of Nelson Twp. which read in part as follows:

"Freeman, April 17, '36.
"Mr. Durham (councillor),
"Grimsby.

"Dear Mr. Durham: Re C. Johns, the man you rang me up about.

"We had made provision for his keep, when we found out he had been taken to Grimsby. As you are no doubt aware, the house was taken as soon as Johns was moved out. If the daughter can look after her father for the time being, well and good. I understand she has no children. The hospital is not a desirable place at present.

"We will supply provisions to a reasonable quantity. If you would rather have a dealer in Grimsby supply them, well we are agreeable. You make the arrangements necessary.

"I know very little about this man, did not know he was sick; had been getting some groceries at store, then the son came to me the other night and told me he had taken dad to Grimsby, and they did not want him. I told him to go fetch dad back. He said he was not well enough, and he had no room for him, that his shanty was occupied, etc. If you have any information re this family that would be of any use to us would appreciate it if you will let me know. I understood you to say that you had very little relief on your hands at present. You are fortunate. This relief is sure some racket.

"Hoping to hear from you again,
"Yours truly,
(Sgd.) "C. E. WOOD,
"Relief officer, Nelson township."

"April 21, 1936
"Mr. Charles Durham,
"Grimsby Beach.

"Dear Mr. Durham: Your letter to hand re Mr. Johns, also his arrival at the Bell place Monday morning. The council has sent him to the hospital and, under the circumstances, I guess it is the best arrangement.
"The old gentleman will at least get taken care of.

"You say you have only one on relief. I would like to know your recipe. We have about a dozen families, half of which ought to be off, still on relief. Out of a total of over 50 families for March and February, it runs us about $1,000 a month. You will have a good idea how hard it is. When I find a family that is not doing right I cut them off. They dress up in Rip Van Winkle clothes and go to the council with their sob stuff. Then you know the rest.

"Thanking you for your kindness and courtesy,
"Yours truly,
(Sgd.) "C. E. WOOD,

RECOMMEND USE OF BUS FLARES

liam Steele and James Stewart of Beamsville as to noticing that there were lights on the rear of the bus after the crash.

Bruce Murdoch of Grimsby identified photographs he took at the scene of the accident showing the car badly damaged and the rear of the bus bent.

C. M. Lampard of St. Catharines represented Theat.

Inquest Held on Friday

The coroner's jury which met on Friday afternoon last to inquire into the death of Miss Florence Love recommended the use of flares by bus drivers as a warning to traffic when it is necessary to stop busses on the highway at night.

The verdict further stated that "the accident was due to reckless driving on the part of the driver of the automobile." The verdict also contained the following comment: "We are of the opinion that the driver of the bus should have used more cautious procedure in stopping where he did but due to the speed at which the car was driven it was impossible for the bus driver to avoid any other result."

It was shown in the evidence that the death of Miss Love was indirectly due to liquor that had been consumed by a member of the bus party which had attended the hockey game in Toronto that night. It was when this man, Donald Hutchinson of St. Catharines, became ill that the bus was brought to a stop on the highway and the accident occurred.

After dancing at the Brant Inn where they had had some beer Wylie Theat, Florence Philpa, Florence Love and Andrew Inglis, Ailsa Craig, bank employee, had gone to the Pines for lunch. It was when they were enroute to Grimsby between 1.30 and 2 a.m. that the accident occurred.

The only member of the auto party who testified at the inquest was Andrew Inglis, who had accompanied the fatally injured girl and who was to have been a guest at the Love home over the weekend. Still suffering from injuries sustained in the accident, he appeared on crutches. Contrary to evidence given by George Ramsay, the driver of the chartered Canadian National bus, and members of the bus party, who had testified that four rear lights were lit after the accident occurred, Mr. Inglis said he could not recall seeing lights on the bus and the car was upon the bus as soon as he had first sighted it. He could not recall what had occurred.

Traffic officer Jess retold the story which Mr. Theat had given in the hospital the following day. Theat could not recall how the accident happened.

Asked by one of the jurors whether the bus driver had complied with regulations in stopping on the highway, Traffic Officer Jess told the jury that that cars must not stop on the travelled portion of the highway "where it is possible to pull off." The driver had explained that he had not pulled off to the seven foot shoulder because the ground was wet and he feared that the heavy bus and its load of about 20,000 pounds might sink and become stuck.

In reviewing the case Coroner Dr. D. G. Clendennan of Winona reminded the jury that it was a well known fact to the medical profession "that liquor even in small quantities dulls the sense of perception to varying degrees even for some hours afterwards."
